III. The New York World, in an stille on this subject, says an excellent apparatus for inform-ing travelers of the names of stations is used the passenger trains of the Ogdensburg and Lake Champlain railroad. It consists of a small wooden box with a glass front, aur-mounted by a heil. When a train arrives at a station the bell rings, and the name of the next topping place on the route appears under the tor of this description would relleve the pub from the annoyance of questioning reticent conductors and surly brakemen, and asce a great deal of trouble all round. Something of the kind is sadly needed. The custom of brakesmen putting their heads out and calling the names of the stations is a primitive fashion, which should be aholished.

The Charleston Phosphales. The New York Trihune of the 19th instant as a long and interesting article on the vast leposite of phosphate recently discovered unerlying various points in and around Charleson. The location, extent and the value of be pho-phates as a ferlizer is diaenssed, and toe phosphates as a ferlizer is diacussed, and the probable importance of it as an article of commerce considered; together with the pro-gress of the development and manufacture of the phosphates and the capital invested and the result obtained. The marl discovered some years ago was analyzed hy several dis-tinguished scientitic men, among them Prof.

J. Lawrence Smith, of this city. The material benefit arising from a proper utilization of this discovery cannot be over-estimated to Carlestoo. Mr. Memminger, formerly Confederate Secretary of the Treasnry, is now at the head of "The Sulphuric Acid and Superphosphate Company," which is engaged in turning the phosphates to use.

Old Time Reception of the President's Mussage. Nothing indicates the absence of dignity and Nothing indicates the absence of dignity and decorum In our national conneils than the way in which the President'a message was received. "In Washington's days the President'a message was received with dignified courtesy, and a committee appointed to wait on the President with the reply. At the time appointed, the Senatora went in procession to the President's room, and were received with that serious and stately courtesy which was then in vogue among persons high in office. hen in vogue among persona high in office. Fancy a long dining room, with the tables and chairs removed. Before the firea suit of black velvet, with black silk atock-ings and silver buckles. His hair, white with powder, is gathered behind in a silk bag. He rears yellow gloves, and holds a cocked bat dorned with cockade and plume. A sword, nd read the address, to which the President nakes a brief and courteous reply, and, at Ita rerumoneous exit, and then returned to their thamber. Customs and manners have changed ince then to a complete antithesla." Our Su-perior Civilization does not seem to tend toward improvement in Senatorial proprieties.

New-Year's Calla. The great question which will ahortly agi te many fair hostesses, whether to receive or of ou New-Year's day, begins to loom np. It is a good thing to take one day to rush around and wish your frienda a happy New-Year. But the question is, can the men spare the time? Time is money. Will they divide that much of their money among their friends? A recent New York letter says: "New Year's eptions have been going out of fashion on Fifth avenue for some years, and there will be from a sense of them this year than last. In fact, nearly every family claiming a good accial position has withdrawn from the list of those who set tablea for New-Year's visitors. A dozen years ago it was considered mean not t set a New-Year's table, furnished with plea set a New-Tear's table, turnished with plent of catalles, wince and strong lignors, and con fectionery; but New York has changed ver much since that time. Class distinction have become sharper, and the people ar more selfish. There is no probability the New-Year's calls will go out of date, but the
